

„Exploring political ecology of climate change adaptation discourse with reference to coastal communities in India“

Prof. Emily Boyd,
Professor of Resilience Geography,
School of Archaeology, Geography and Environmental Sciences (SAGES) University of Reading

Emily Boyd is a social scientist specializing in climate change, development and resilience.

She has a BSc (UEA), MSC (Oxon) and PhD in Development Studies from the University of East Anglia, where she studied the governance and consequences of the carbon offsets on rural livelihoods in Bolivia and Brazil.

She then worked as a researcher at the Stockholm Resilience Centre (2005) and as a James Martin/Leverhulme Fellow at Oxford University (2006-2009). She was a lecturer and Deputy Director, Global Development Centre, University of Leeds (2009-2011).

Emily Boyd was appointed Professor in Resilience Geography at Reading in 2013. She was a Reader in Environment and Development at the University of Reading in (2011-2013). Emily is currently a Steering Board member of the Governmental Strategic Research Programme at Stockholm University Ekoklim and Resilience Programme leader at the Centre for Food Security (CFS).

Date: Thursday, 20.11.2014

Venue: South Asia Institute, Room Z10

Time: 6 pm / 18 Uhr s.t.