Welcome to this first edition of the SAI | Newsletter. It substitutes the former SAI-Report that has provided information regarding the SAI in yearly reviews. The SAI | Newsletter owes to the SAI-Report by taking over the structure of topics. Thus you will find contents in the newsletter arranged to sections such as NEWS, TEACHING, RESEARCH, PEOPLE, and BOOKS & PUBLICATIONS.

With the SAI | Newsletter we provide information in more frequent sequences and in a more flexible, appealing and technically up-to-date form. Single entries have been circulated through e-mail lists or on the SAI-website before. For the SAI | Newsletter they have been reedited and assembled according to the sections given above. The SAI | Newsletter presents what we have to offer at SAI: A fascinating unity in a variety of academic topics on South Asia, a unique group of highly qualified academics, numerous best practice examples for research and teaching and last but not least a sound degree of public attention. Apart from looking back at what has happened at the institute the SAI | Newsletter will also point at upcoming activities and events. By doing so the SAI | Newsletter combines the important task of documentation while at the same time looking ahead to what the future will bring.

The first edition of the SAI | Newsletter will bring the celebration of the 50th anniversary of the SAI to your attention. While the jubilee has already been opened with the spectacular talk of the world-famous mountaineer Gerlinde Kaltenbrunner in mid-January 2012, the major part of the program still lies ahead. Between late February and early April the SAI will host three events in South Asia namely in Sri Lanka, India and Nepal. With the beginning of the summer term the focus will shift to Heidelberg. You will find regularly updated information on the website and in the next issue of the SAI | Newsletter. Today we would like you to keep in mind that on May 8th 2012 the central celebration of the anniversary will take place in the Old Lecture Hall (Alte Aula) of the University, followed by an Alumni-Evening (May 11th) and an Open Day (Tag der Offenen Tür; May 12th) for SAI-members as well as general audience which will end with an (open-end) SAI-Party on the same evening. We hope to see as many of you as possible for the SAI-anniversary.

SOUTH ASIA INSTITUTE - 50 YEARS OF LOOKING AHEAD

The celebrations marking the 50th anniversary of Heidelberg University's South Asia Institute (SAI) that was founded in May 1962 began in January 2012 with the talk by mountaineer Gerlinde Kaltenbrunner about her climbing experiences in the Himalayas. For this event one of the largest lecture halls on campus was fully booked (see following report in this issue). Thus the talk by one of the most celebrated mountaineers became a perfect start for the anniversary year that will be followed by a number of events during the main part of the celebrations between March and July 2012.

The motto for the SAI's anniversary program is "The South Asia Institute: 50 Years of Looking Ahead". Further details as well as regularly updated information can be found on the website <http://www.sai.uni-heidelberg.de/en/50years/>.

The anniversary will be celebrated both in Heidelberg and in South Asia. In Heidelberg, the anniversary program offers single events, includes a central week of festivities in May and provides a series of lectures on South Asia addressing the general public running from April to July. Even before the anniversary program in Heidelberg takes off there will be a number of events in different countries throughout South Asia. These include a conference in India entitled "Between Global Aspirations and Local Realities. India's Cities in Interdisciplinary Perspective" that will be held at the JNU Campus in New Delhi. Secondly, there will be a workshop in Sri Lanka in early March that focuses on new research perspectives in the country and finally a celebration on the occasion of the 25th anniversary of the establishment of the branch office in Kathmandu, Nepal. We are looking forward to a year of celebration of the South Asia Institute (SAI) that will be conducted in a joint effort by all members of the Institute.

In the fall of 2011, Stefan Klonner and Sarah Linders of the Department of Development Economics organized the “Fourth Inter-University Doctoral Workshop in Development Economics”. The two-day workshop, which took place at the IWH in Heidelberg’s old town, began with a public panel discussion on the Indian microfinance crisis on the evening of September 28. The panel, which was organized jointly with the development cooperative Oikocredit, brought together microfinance practitioners Mohammad N. Amin (CEO, Adhikar Microfinance), Lovely Mukherjee (Area Manager East India, Oikocredit India) and Jim Reiff (Growing Opportunity Finance Ltd.) with researchers Prof. Dr. Stefan Klonner (Department of Development Economics, SAI) and Prof. Dr. Eva Terberger (Chair of Development Finance, Mannheim University). The panel discussion was attended by students, academics, as well as the general public. A television team was also present and interviews with some of the panelists were subsequently broadcasted on the public broadcasting station ZDF-Infokanal (a link to the program can be found on the Department’s website).

The second day featured presentations by doctoral students in the field of development economics. Nine young researchers and three professors from various German universities and academic institutions attended this workshop which gave doctoral candidates the opportunity to present original work at an early stage to peers and senior academics. Topics included International Migration, Parental Decision Making and Children’s Achievements, The Role of Education for Agricultural Productivity and International Trade and Corruption. On both days, participants as well as the audience expressed their enthusiasm about the event.

A total of 10 institutes and institutions at Heidelberg University joined forces for the HCE. At HCE the existing competences on environmental sciences will be brought together thus intensifying and further developing activities in research, teaching as well as knowledge transfer. NEW ACTIVITIES OF POLITICAL SCIENCE DEPARTMENT IN BRUSSELS

Early this year, the Department of Political Science started cooperating with the South Asia Democratic Forum (SADF). The SADF was set up in 2011 by its Executive Director Paulo Casaca, a former member of the European Parliament, as an independent non-governmental organization, with its main site in Brussels. Its primary mission is to act as a platform for dialogue between public and private institutions in South Asia and Europe, and to seek to bridge the geopolitical gap that comes in the way of a closer understanding. Part of this endeavour is to seek cooperation with individuals and institutions who share the SADF views and vision, especially with regard to democracy, human rights and security. With these goals as the main challenge, the SADF seeks to become a leading think tank on South Asian development and South Asia's link to Europe. As part of the cooperation, Professor Mitra will act as the chairman of the SADF academic advisory board and Dr. Siegfried O. Wolf will take over the position of the Director of Research in order to coordinate the SADF fellows as well as their research and educational activities. Two cooperative projects that have already been implemented are, the 'Insights South Asia – Nepal Survey 2011' and a Seminar on "Triangular Dynamics and Security in South Asia: Implications for Europe", which was held in the European Parliament in January 2012.

STUDY ON CLIMATE CHANGE IN THE HIMALAYA

In the recent article „Offsetting Greenhouse Gas Emissions in the Himalaya? Clean Development Dams in Himachal Pradesh, India“ the authors Alexander Erlewein and Marcus Nüsser (Department of Geography, SAI) present a study on the effectiveness of dams for climate protection. The featured article was published in the recent edition of the Mountain Research and Development and was also discussed in the Hill Post .

NEW PUBLICATION: “VISUALIZED TEXTS” BY PD DR. JÖRG GENGNAGEL

PD Dr. Jörg Gengnagel, Interim Professor of the Chair for Cultural and Religious History of South Asia published his new book Visualized Texts. Sacred Spaces, Spatial Texts and the Religious Cartography of Banaras (Ethno-Indology. Heidelberg Studies in South Asian Rituals 7) with Harrassowitz (Wiesbaden).

NEW BOOK BY HANS HARDER ON BENGALI SATIRES

The new book by Hans Harder “Verkehrte Welten: Bengalische Satiren aus dem Kolonialen Kalkutta” [Worlds upside down: Bengal satires from Colonial Calcutta] was just released by Draupadi, Heidelberg. The book was part of a presentation at the Frankfurt Book Fair on October 16th. “Verkehrte Welten” includes a selection of 13 satirical texts, each introducing a particular author and the context of the text. The presentation of the satirical texts is bilingual (German/Bengali).

“CITIZENSHIP AND THE FLOW OF IDEAS”, ED. BY SUBRATA K. MITRA

The book conceptualises citizenship as a ‘travelling’ concept. Despite the ubiquity of citizenship, both analytically, and in descriptive terms, there is a great deal of ambiguity surrounding its meaning and application. This volume explores the general question of how citizenship has moved from one location to another, both between and within cultures.

JULIA A. B. HEGEWALD AND SUBRATA K. MITRA EDITED THE BOOK “RE-USE-THE ART AND POLITICS OF INTEGRATION AND ANXIETY”

“Re-use” offers a novel approach to understanding the relationship between the past and the present in terms of the concept of ‚re-use‘. It introduces the theory of re-use - wherein elements from the past are adapted and built upon - as an important heuristic tool for analysing and interpreting cultural and political changes and the transnational flow of ideas, concepts and objects in South Asia.
