MASTER OF ARTS IN DEVELOPMENT, ENVIRONMENT, SOCIETIES, AND HISTORY OF SOUTH ASIA

This two-year degree is one of three Masters degrees offered by the South Asia Institute of Heidelberg University, Germany. The classes are taught in English, in small group formats comprising students from all over the world.

Students can choose from a large selection of classes to support a research-oriented program that engages with historical, social, and current political and economic developments and events, as well as geography and environment in the countries of South Asia.

The goal of the program is to familiarize students with interdisciplinary approaches from various fields in the humanities and social sciences and to enable them to work independently and self-reflectively. Students choose a focus area, which they can supplement it with other courses, including languages.

The following focus areas can be selected: Political Science

History

Development Economics

Geography

Anthropology

Art History and Visual Culture

The South Asia Institute is Europe's leading center for South Asian Studies with an active international research network and an outstanding library. With our branch offices in several South Asian countries, and many visiting scholars from all over the world, we provide an environment for interdisciplinary applied learning and research.

Application Deadline for Summer Semester 2023: March 31, 2023

Application Deadline for Winter Semester 2023/24: May 01 to September 30, 2023

Applicants are advised to start the process early, especially if they require visas.

Applicants must hold an above average Bachelor's degree in one of the focus areas or a related discipline. Other applicants may be eligible if they can demonstrate proficiency in these disciplines.
