UNEVEN MARGINS

Transcultural Dynamics and Religious Violence in South Asia and the Himalayan Regions

Violence appears to be a decisive factor in defining religious discourses, practices and identities, while at the same time crossing several dimensions ranging from influencing ritual practices to providing specific justifications to religiously driven political violence. Drawing from several disciplines this workshop aims to analyze the issues related to religious violence in order to explore its web of entangled dimensions encompassing myth, praxis and politics.
